

John Locke

LibriVox

An Essay Concerning
Humane Understanding III

John Locke An Essay Concerning Humane Understanding Book III

John Locke An Essay Concerning Humane Understanding Book III

An Essay Concerning Humane Understanding
Book III

John Locke (1632 -1704)

This is the third book of John Locke's Essay on Human Understanding. Book I was Neither Principles Nor Ideas Are Innate. Book II was Of Ideas and Book III is Of Words. Locke is writing about the ideas we have in our minds and the things they are to represent. What does it mean to define a thing? What is an abstract idea? What is motion? What is essential to me as an individual? What would an Englishman born in Jamaica think about ice when he went to England for the first time? What is a concrete term? Locke tackles many such questions in this third book. Book IV is Of Knowledge and Probability. - Summary by Craig Campbell

Total running time: 06:20:14
Read in English by Craig Campbell; ChadH94; Sarah Lorenowich; Mia Russell; Cboswell7498; Lucretia B.; Matthew D. Robinson; Abe Stone; Ellaqyint
MC: Amy Gramour BC: Craig Campbell DPL: SaraHale

Genre: Philosophy

This recording is in the public domain and may be reproduced, distributed, or modified without permission. For more information or to volunteer, visit librivox.org. Cover picture by Herman Verelst (ca. 1690). Copyright expired in U.S., Canada, EU, and all countries with author's life +70 yrs laws. Cover design by Monika M. C. This design is in the public domain.

Total running time: 06:20:14
Read in English by Craig Campbell; ChadH94; Sarah Lorenowich; Mia Russell; Cboswell7498; Lucretia B.; Matthew D. Robinson; Abe Stone; Eliagynt
MC: Amy Gramour BC: Craig Campbell DPL: SarahHale
Genre: Philosophy
This recording is in the public domain and may be reproduced, distributed, or modified without permission. For more information or to volunteer, visit librivox.org.
Cover picture by Herman Verelst (ca. 1690). Copyright expired in U.S., Canada, EU, and all countries with author's life +70 yrs laws. Cover design by Monika M. C. This design is in the public domain.

An Essay Concerning Humane Understanding III

LibriVox

John Locke

An Essay Concerning Humane Understanding

Book III

John Locke (1632 -1704)

This is the third book of John Locke's Essay on Human Understanding. Book I was Neither Principles Nor Ideas Are Innate. Book II was Of Ideas and Book III is Of Words. Locke is writing about the ideas we have in our minds and the things they are to represent. What does it mean to define a thing? What is an abstract idea? What is motion? What is essential to me as an individual? What would an Englishman born in Jamaica think about ice when he went to England for the first time? What is a concrete term? Locke tackles many such questions in this third book. Book IV is Of Knowledge and Probability. - Summary by Craig Campbell